OKANAGAN, KOOTENAYS FACE NEW WAVE OF TERRORISM

Negro Faces Death For Stealing $1.95

CRANFORD, N.J. (AP)—White social worker Louis Kousin said he is sending a cheque for $1.95 to Governor James E. Folson of Alabama to help a Negro who is facing a death sentence for robbing a white woman of that amount last summer. Robbery is a capital offence in Alabama.

Sharp-Punching Champion Too Much for Game Roy Harris

Vicious body attack and punishing combinations to the head were too much for game Texan Roy Harris last night as champion Floyd Patterson scored a 12th-round TKO. Harris, shown on the canvas in the eighth round, could not answer the bell for the 13th. Referee Mushy Callahan directs the heavyweight champion to his corner. Story on page 6. —(AP Photofax.)

Battling B.C. Blaze

Fiery Tornado Engulfs Men

MERRIT, B.C. (CP) — A fiery baby tornado sent two men to hospital Sunday, reports reaching this centre south of Kamloops said Monday.

It roared out of a forest fire in the Douglas Lake Cattle Company rangeland, enveloping two firefighters in flames.

Others fled for their lives.

In Nicola Valley General Hospital in critical conditions are Vern MacDonald, 16, and Gordon Fraser, 60. Burns cover 75 per cent of their bodies. They were hurled into the air like flaming torches by the twister.

The small twisters, called "dust devils" on the prairies and in the Washington-Oregon dry country, seldom occur in B.C.

Premier to Marry

Reports from Winnipeg say Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin, 41 (above) will marry Mary MacKay, production assistant with the Canadian Broadcasting Commission, on Aug. 30. Mr. Roblin, a bachelor, elected this year, is the first Conservative premier since 1915.

Dynamite Stolen, Fire Set

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—RCMP said Monday a new wave of terrorist violence may be in store for the trouble-ridden Okanagan and Kootenay areas of interior British Columbia.

They said three cases of dynamite, containing a total of 375 sticks, have been stolen from a highways department magazine at Merritt.

Also, arsonists had set a second forest fire near Krestova, home of the Sons of Freedom sect of Doukhobors, where another blaze set by arsonists already was roaring out of control over 5,000 acres.

The two incidents were reported just a few hours before RCMP visited the hospital here and charged a member of the Freedomite sect with making an explosive with intent to endanger life or cause serious damage to property. See page 2.)

BOJEY CHARGED

Charged is Harry Bojey, 20, of Winlaw, B.C., who barely escaped alive from a dynamite explosion Wednesday that killed Philip Pereveresoff, 20, another Freedomite also from Winlaw in the Kootenays.

In the dynamite theft, RCMP said they have made no arrests so far. They said the dynamite probably was stolen to make more bombs of the type that recently exploded in the Okanagan centres of Oliver, Penticton and Vernon.

Enough dynamite was stolen for more than 180 bombs.

Dulles Warns:

Appeasement Today Would Lead to War

NEW YORK (UPI) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles warned last night that a policy of appeasement by the United States today would lead to war as surely as it did in 1939.

Dulles, speaking at a Veteran of Foreign Wars banquet at which he received the Bernard Baruch Medal for his contribution to peace, said the United States would not and could not embark on such a policy.

He recalled that in 1939 former Soviet Premier Josef Stalin criticized the United States, Britain and France for making "concession after concession to the aggressors" and abandoning collective security with smaller nations.

"Today, roles are altered," said Dulles. "The Soviet Union, in March, 1939, was fearful of the power of the then aggressors. But now it is itself a great military power. The Soviet government, in concert with its alter-ego, the international Communist movement, seeks to dominate the world.

"It now denounces the policy of collective security. It now wants each of its prospective victims to be left to stand alone.

"But it is as certain now, as it was in 1939, that policy of falling back, of making concession after concession, will not lead to peace, but to war.

"The United States rejects that policy."

Dulles said the United States also rejects a policy of expediency or "power politics" and strives instead to "seek to secure peace by promoting the reign of law and justice in the world."

Nowlan Pledge

CBC Future Assured

OTTAWA (CP) — Revenue Minister Nowland last night made clear the CBC will operate virtually unchanged when an independent body to regulate broadcasting in Canada has been established.

He said the government intends to "continue, maintain and strengthen" the CBC, as he introduced in Commons a resolution to set up the new agency which will take over CBC's governing powers.

QUICK PASSAGE

Mr. Nowlan urged quick passage of the resolution so that the ensuing legislation could be introduced. The resolution was being debated at adjournment and will be debated again today.

If it is approved, a bill will be introduced giving complete details of the government's future broadcasting plans. Principal issues will be increased power of private stations to govern their own affairs, and methods of financing CBC. A recent royal commission recommended that parliament supply CBC with $470,000,000 for the next six years.

Defends Arab Nationalism

India Imperils West Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—India, the leading neutralist power in Asia, made a significant defence of Arab nationalism at Monday's meeting of the United Nations emergency assembly on the Middle East.

The Indian support for the Arab position, expressed by delegate Arthur Lall, indicated that Western-backed proposals for the UN to take over in the Middle East might not win a vote in the assembly where the Arab-Asian nations make up a powerful voting bloc.

CITES CRITICISM

Lall said, in one of the most important speeches of this emergency meeting, that the strongest criticism of Arab nationalism comes from "those parts of the world whose life lies squarely on a vigorous, flourishing and well-established nationalism."

"Unless we look on Arab nationalism in the perspective of history, we shall continue to have misunderstandings and take actions which threaten the peace and security in that area and of the entire world."

He described Arab nationalism as a "powerful, dynamic force."

"We understand that nationalism as a natural expression of the upsurge of the Arab peoples. It is the same force that can be found in other countries, particularly those of Asia and Africa where they have lain dormant for a long period."

Canada Backs UN Resolution

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Norway, Canada and five other countries yesterday submitted to the United Nations General Assembly a resolution empowering Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to make "practical arrangements" for peace in the Middle East.

The mild and vaguely worded resolution took note of American and British declarations of willingness to withdraw their forces from Lebanon and Jordan "whenever this is requested by the duly constituted government, or whenever as a result of action of the UN or otherwise, their presence is no longer required."

New Political Party Formed in Quebec

MONTREAL (CP) — The Civic Action League Monday announced its decision to enter provincial politics as a third party.

The league, headed by former Montreal mayor Jean Drapeau, until now operated only at the municipal level.

The league said it "recognized the inability of the traditional political parties to offer a program equal to the needs" of the province.

Show Cancels Island Prize

NEW YORK (AP) — Television producer Robert Stivers said Monday he has decided against giving away a little Scottish island as a gimmick on his TV show.

"There is enough international complication," he said, bowing to protests. Eighteen persons inhabit the teacup-sized isle.

20,000 Pupils

Schools Staffed For Record Year

Greater Victoria schools will be fully staffed when a record 20,000 pupils turn to studies Sept. 3.

"In spite of the delay or set-back which the board faced because of prolonged negotiations, we had enough applications," said chief school inspector John Gough.

He added: "I don't think we have had to sacrifice the quality of selection. We had a small surplus of applicants."

The board has hired 725 teachers, 38 more than last year, to teach the 1,400 increase in students expected.

Sooke school district secretary L. W. Wheeldon reported only one vacancy — for a one-room school at Bear Creek.

"We had an excellent year with teachers," he said.

The district has 74 teacher positions, up seven from last year.

SIU Rejects Board Terms

MONTREAL (CP) — Three thousand members of the Seafarers' International Union have rejected a conciliation board's terms for settling an eight-month-old dispute with nine Great Lakes shipping companies, the union's publication disclosed Monday.

In addition to wage increases, the board's report recommended the seamen be given 16 days' pay in lieu of holidays, provided they worked steadily from the season's start.

Russians Sympathetic

U.S. Moon Rocket Blows Up

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — America's first moon rocket exploded high in the sky Sunday 77 seconds after blast-off.

The fiery failure of the giant air force rocket—longest ever launched by the United States—meant that another lunar probe probably will not be attempted before Sept. 14 when the moon again approaches within 222,000 miles of the earth.

This was probably not man's first effort to hurl a satellite into orbit around the moon. Russia is believed to have failed recently in a similar try. Russian scientists yesterday expressed sympathy with the U.S. and called it a "wonderful attempt."

After a spectacular launching, the 88-foot-long rocket blew apart with a huge puff of white smoke and orange flame at 50,000 feet. Hundreds of spectators watched from a beach outside the missile test centre.

Thus, the flight that was to have taken 2½ days to the moon ended abruptly only a little more than a minute after the firing.

Air force spokesmen had warned that the odds were at least 10 to 1 against success of this first attempt to put a camera-equipped satellite into a lunar orbit.

Trouble developed in the engine of the first stage—a modified Thor intermediate-range ballistic missile.

Esquimalt Backs Shipyard Plea

On request of a shipyard workers' union, Esquimalt council will suggest that the federal and provincial government build two or more ships in Victoria shipyards.

Letter to the federal government will ask that at least one of six proposed new RCN destroyer escorts be built here, and a letter to the provincial government will suggest local construction of at least one of the two proposed Saanich-Steveston fast ferries.

Request for backing came from the unemployment-hit International Brotherhood of Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders.

Council chose the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee as its representative at public hearings next month on the proposed increase in B.C. Electric transit fares.

It endorsed the committee's opposition to further subsidization of transit by light and power rate increases, and to any reduction in B.C. Electric transit franchise payments.

Council gave all-but-final passage to a bill rezoning three acres at Aldebury and Viewfield for industrial use. B.C. Electric plans to construct an electrical substation on the site in about five years.

Councillor Suggests

Put Schools to Use As Recreation Centres

Use of school auditoriums and gymnasiums for evening recreation for teen-agers and adults was suggested to the Greater Victoria School Board last night by Saanich Coun. Charles Nelles.

These recreation facilities should be used "every minute of the walking day," Coun. Nelles said.

Coun. Nelles noted that the supervised recreation program in Saanich's 16 or 17 play areas would soon end.

"We would rather that our parks department shifted gear to an older group—the teen-agers and adults," he said. "We would like to use some of the excellent recreation facilities you have built into your schools."

"We had in mind badminton, table tennis and possibly square dancing," he said.

Trustee Richard Reeve, chairman of the building and grounds committee, said the more use the school buildings are put to the better is the return on the investment.

He noted, however, that the school board would not be able to pay the cost of the extra light, heat, water or janitorial services.

It was pointed out that many organizations already use the school buildings.

The school board granted permission to Saanich parks superintendent Bertrand Richman to discuss the matter with school board officials.

Pathetic Pair Turn Savage

MONTREAL (CP)—Two women of suburban Lasalle told police yesterday they were robbed by a harmless-looking man they thought was blind, and the little girl who led him by the hand.

What Happened To the Blanket?

Why didn't Mrs. Mungo Martin's blanket go to the Brussels fair?

No one in Victoria knew yesterday following receipt of a letter from D. W. Buchanan, director of the National Gallery in Ottawa, who headed the committee which selected Indian works for the Canadian display.

A city member of the B.C. Indian Arts and Welfare Society explained that when Mrs. Martin first heard of the fair she started to weave a blanket for it, but later it was learned the blanket could not be finished in time.

A Vancouver woman who owns another of Mrs. Martin's blankets offered it as a replacement and it was sent to Ottawa through the department of Indian affairs in Vancouver.

Mrs. Buchanan said the blanket was "not presented to us at Ottawa for consideration at Brussels." Canada showed baskets, moccasins, gauntlets, a black slate carving and two Cowichan sweaters.

Sect's 'Bomb Plant' Found in Okanagan

KELOWNA (CP)—Discovery of the shattered body of a young Sons of Freedom Doukhobor in an isolated cabin in the Okanagan hills led police Sunday to piece together a story of terrorist bomb manufacture that somehow went wrong.

It left another member of the religious sect maimed for life after crawling 400 yards to a highway and crying for help with half his chest blown away. A motorist picked him up three days after the estimated time of the blast.

RCMP identified the dead man as Philip Pereveresoff, 20, of Winlaw, B.C., which lies 200 miles across the Cascade Mountains in the Kootenays near the headquarters of the fanatic Freedomite sect at Krestova. Both arms were blown away.

Under guard in Kelowna Hospital is Harry Bojey, 20, also of Winlaw. One lung was blown away, his face was injured and he has lost the sight of one eye. Bojey was reported in fair condition after four doctors worked on him Sunday.

After a preliminary investigation of paraphernalia found at the scene RCMP investigating officers concluded the two were manufacturing a time bomb of the jar type, the same as discovered in the wash room at a Vernon hotel some weeks ago.

They said the bomb had apparently been set to go off at midnight Wednesday, about the same time terrorist bombs blasted two post offices and a public building in the Okanagan centres of Osoyoos, Oliver and Vernon.

RCMP Staff-Sgt. W. B. Irving said two sticks of dynamite were used in the bomb which exploded. Another 10 sticks were found nearby, enough to make five more bombs.

The dynamite was of the highest potency—next in power to nitroglycerine.

Police said they believe Pereveresoff's cabin was one of a number of nerve centres for the manufacture of terrorist bombs, rather than the main "factory" as at first believed.

The latest development in terrorist activity led authorities to rush 100 RCMP police from Chilliwack and Kamloops into the area to augment the regular eight-man Kelowna detachment.

Heavy police guards were put on the new $7,500,000 Okanagan Lake Bridge, on industrial plants and business houses.

'Romeo' and 'Juliet' Re-enact Tragedy

REGGIO CALABRIA, Italy (UPI)—It was Romeo and Juliet all over again.

There were the feuding families, the young lovers, the death that came to both.

The families were the Spoletis and the Calabros who have been feuding for many years—a bitter hatred whose cause was lost in the passage of time since the first Spoletis Calabros fought.

The lovers were Antonio Calabro, 22, and Carmela Spoleti, 15, who had met and loved each other despite their family backgrounds.

They had met secretly for several months, but on Saturday they forgot the family feud and walked openly, arm in arm. The girl's 25-year-old brother, Francesco, saw them and tragedy followed.

Francesco shot his sister in the abdomen and Antonio in the head, killing them both.

Bruno Calabro, 58, father of the slain man, and Abounziate Spoleti, 50, mother of the girl, rushed to the sides of their children where they lay in the street.

The bitter pain of the moment merged with Bruno's hatred of the Calabros and he shot and killed the girl's mother. Francesco and Bruno exchanged shots, too, and both fell wounded.

Little Rock Slapped

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—The U.S. Court of Appeals yesterday reversed an order which would have postponed racial integration of the Little Rock, Ark., schools until 1961.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus went into consultation with his advisers and one source predicted he would call the state legislature into special session before the end of the week to consider anti-integration legislation.

The decision by the seven-man court here said that to back postponement of integration "would result in accession to the demands of insurrectionists and rioters."

The court's majority opinion said: "The time has not yet come when an order of a federal court must be whittled away, watered down, or shamefully withdrawn in the face of violence."

Meanwhile, in Norfolk, Va., the school board, under a federal court order to desegregate with the opening of schools Sept. 8, last night rejected the applications of all 151 Negro students seeking admission to white schools.

Which Takes Precedence?

THE case of a Victoria shipyard which lost an important contract in Vancouver to a competitor whose bid was higher opens up a question to which there is no ready answer. It involves public spending policy in relation to the provision of employment, and it creates difficulty for government at all levels.

Most calls for tenders contain a clause to the effect that the lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted. In other words, the caller reserves the right of decision regardless of price, and the bidder has no redress if he does not get the job, even though his tender may be the lowest. In this case the Greater Vancouver water board accepted a Vancouver tender which was several thousand dollars higher than the Victoria bid. The reason given for doing so was the necessity as seen by the board to provide work for Vancouver men. Ability of the Victoria company to carry out the contract was never in question; it was simply a case of a local body deciding to spend its money among its own people.

The Victoria company and the union involved have both protested, and with some cause. The company certainly is entitled to complain. It costs a great deal of money to prepare a tender, and if the Vancouver board did not intend the contract to go outside its own territory it should have advised prospective bidders to that effect and so saved them the trouble and expense of competing.

Beyond that, however, the local protest is not consistent with representations made from time to time with respect to shipbuilding contracts. On several occasions it has been asserted that the federal government should build naval ships on the west coast regardless of the fact that they could be built cheaper elsewhere. Basis of this submission is that it is the government's duty to provide work for these skilled trades. More recently the same argument has been presented to the British Columbia government in connection with the projected construction of ferries for the Island-mainland run. In effect the shipyard and the union now argue that that principle is right if Victoria gets the contract but wrong if someone else does. They can't have it both ways.

Where the expenditure of public money is involved each case has to be considered in the light of all factors. There is just as much validity in the argument that Vancouver money should be spent among Vancouver people as in the other one that B.C. money should provide employment in B.C.

Officers for the Navy

RECRUITMENT figures for the RCN dwell on lower deck enlistments so that the picture respecting officer personnel is never too well known. Apparently it is not comforting either and is causing concern. The commanding officer of Naden indicated last week that insufficient youths of the required type seem willing to adopt the navy as a career, and there is the prospect of the RCN being short of officers in the 24-35 age group in future years.

When one watches graduation exercises at the Venture and Royal Roads colleges one is apt to think the supply of naval officers is being well taken care of. Not all cadets at Royal Roads are earmarked for the navy, of course; as a tri-services college its initial service training covers all three branches of the armed forces. The Venture plan in fact was instituted a few years ago to add to the supply of naval officers.

Nor do cadets at the tri-services colleges of necessity go into the regular forces. This is not mandatory, even if the large amount spent by the state to educate and train officer personnel might imply an obligation on cadets to do so. The alternative is service in the reserve forces which, although necessary and valuable for defence purposes, does not help the regular forces to maintain an even officer balance.

The navy offers such a fine career nowadays for boys of required educational standards to become officers, it is surprising perhaps that the RCN finds itself in difficulties. Naval life calls for a certain dedication, however, and young men are apparently more attracted by the fleshpots of current civilian life. Yet a good opportunity is being missed. To be an officer in the RCN is to embrace a heritage of achievement any boy should be proud to share.

It may be that the RCN will have to do most to cure its lack of officer recruitment. It knows its requirements best, but means may have to be found of providing swifter promotion, of the unfreezing of personnel confined to special categories, and of inducing more elevations from the lower deck; all with a view to making the gold rings more attractive than ever.

Luck Turns for RCMP

DISCOVERY of a hidden bomb-factory in the Okanagan Hills on Sunday, after the finding of two men badly mutilated by an explosion, appears to be the first piece of luck that the RCMP have had in their long, patient and thorough inquiry into terroristic activities in the Kootenay and later the Kelowna districts. While no comment may be made on individuals held for investigation by the police, the existence of an organized plant for the production of time bombs using a highly concentrated form of explosive is a startling discovery. The development could lead to an unravelling of many factors which have been puzzling in connection with a whole series of episodes in the Interior.

Dynamite, especially in its concentrated form, is not an explosive which is easy for anyone in unauthorized channels to get. Back of the dynamite found at the improvised bomb-factory there should be a traceable record. What chills is the thought that here is something stronger than the suspicion that sporadic bombings in the Sons of Freedom areas of the province in the past have been in some fashion connected, one with another. Regardless of who may or may not have been identified with it, the secret explosives plant postulates both an organization and a plan of procedure.

If this development leads to a solution of the violent and long-continued chain of bombings in the Interior, the RCMP will have done great service in British Columbia. Not only at the time of the recent royal visit but long before that in sporadic fits and starts bombings in Doukhobor areas have done a great deal of damage, and led to what has amounted at times to a reign of terror in the outlying parts of these areas.

Sunday's discovery may well prove to be a turning point in one of the longest and most serious investigations ever undertaken by the authorities in the matter.

"They don't say positively"

On the Record

Power Politics

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

HEADLINES continue to reflect official and journalistic speculations: "Khrushchev's game in New York," "What's Up Khrushchev's Sleeve?" are typical.

But we find it easier to understand the policy of the "socialist camp" than the American.

Both camps are playing power politics. In its background is the threat of war. Neither side wants war. Each professes to be working (and arming) for peace. But each will accept war rather than surrender or retreat voluntarily.

* * *

Each camp calls the other "imperialist." In the essential meaning of this Latin-derived word, each is. Each wishes to maintain and extend its power, at the cost of the other. Everything that is done is for this purpose, and, from an ethical viewpoint, is thereby rendered impure. All the great ethical religions and the new secular ones, command men to feed the hungry, clothe the naked, heal the sick, and admonish the rich to share their wealth with the poor.

But even in non-military, economic aid all the protagonists are seeking to win prestige and extend power.

In this cold war of "powers" each side, where it cannot extend its power without seriously risking war, seeks to check or contain the other and cause a retreat.

* * *

Throughout the East the Russian-led bloc is succeeding far better than the bloc led by the United States, consternation caused by realization of this has sent American Marines to Lebanon and British troops to Jordan.

But the cause of Russia's successes lies in her clearer analysis of the social and political forces moving in the former colonial world and applying the analysis.

The "socialist camp" has several advantages. The peoples are totally unfree, but their governments are freer than those of the West. They hold unchallengeable power at home. All of them have been trained in the dialectical process of thinking which Lenin and his successors took from Marx, Marx from Hegel, and Hegel from antique philosophers. It is an exercise in logic.

Russian leaders during and after the Second World War saw that they could not extend power by the promotion of their "ideology."

What they foresaw, however, was the breakdown of colonialism in Asia and Africa, as the certain result of two great wars, and the rise of nationalisms which, regardless of "ideologies," would support each other and gravitate toward whatever great power would protect and support them.

* * *

Russia, which never had colonies in the area, has chosen, under Khrushchev (less isolationist than Stalin) to be that power.

But their natural protector was the United States, born in anti-colonial revolution, and anti-colonial in its grass-roots spirit ever since, despite various lapses. In Asia, Africa, and the Near and Middle East, "America" was synonymous with personal liberty and national freedom and independence.

The torch that the "socialist camp" is now so successfully carrying was first raised by us, and was right at hand. In raising it we could have turned the renascent old nations away from Russia and Communism, toward independence and self-fulfillment.

Why did we not do so — or why have we neither wholeheartedly espoused national freedoms nor strongly opposed them?

Because we ourselves have not been free. Through military alliances, mutual aid programs, support of Zionist ambitions, and what not, we have entangled ourselves in the problems of dissolving colonial empires, incurred the displeasure of our European allies and the disappointment of the new Eastern nations that amounts to the hatred of frustrated love.

During and since the Second World War there has hardly been an American foreign policy. Our relations with other countries, often contradictory, have been influenced by powerful penetrations in behalf of interests other than our own.

Thinking Aloud

Gerald Waring

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

OLD soldiers never die, says the song, they only fade away. What that means is that they are a tough breed and last a long time. So are Victoria Cross winners of all services.

One of them died in Toronto last week at what is now the comparatively early age of 64 years. He was not much more than a boy when he won his cross at Passchendaele in 1917.

Most VC winners are young men when they gain the award; some of them have been teen-agers. Senior officers don't quality easily for inclusion in this select group; and deeds of derring-do come more naturally to younger men.

* * *

Whitaker's Almanack for 1958 lists no fewer than 366 surviving holders of the VC. This is a large proportion, better than a quarter of all the crosses awarded during the hundred-year history of this decoration. The total is 1,346, not including three bars or the VC bestowed on the American Unknown Soldier.

Of this number about one in every five recipients paid with his life for his valor—in the last war the ratio was almost one in two—so that holders still living exemplify the longevity sung about at veterans' reunions.

Two present-day Victoria winners, for instance, have reached the Biblical span and happily seem as hale and hearty as men half their age.

A predilection for fading slowly, as it were, is not surprising among this group of men. Unfortunately no women can be included in the list, for, among other reasons, while women are eligible for the VC the bestowal of the decoration is determined by men). VC winners usually are tenacious beings. In civvies they may appear as innocuous as their neighbors, but within them they have an unusual strain of stubborn fibre not readily put aside. That is why they are VC holders.

Sometimes, but not often, as may be deduced from the official record, a recipient won the cross for an explosive burst of courage encompassing a few minutes. More often, however, he displayed a persistence and sustained disdain of danger over a period calculated to test his mettle to the utmost.

* * *

That suggests, naturally, that he doesn't give ground readily, whether to an enemy or to age. In the Whitaker list, for example, no fewer than 10 of the living holders are of Boer War vintage, which means that they are octogenarians or close to that venerable state.

A Sidney VC whom most of you knew was of like distinction when he died two years ago, and when the then Prince of Wales held a dinner for VCs in 1929 the oldest recipient present was a veteran of eighty-five summers and winters. His cross must have been won during the first decade of the decoration.

It would seem, therefore, that Victoria Cross winners span the years well. The courage that enabled them to capture the most prized military badge of all is matched by their capacity to weather other ordeals as well.

Long may they continue merely to "fade"—gradually—away.

Reports from Ottawa

THERE is something crocodilian about the verbal tears that Liberal MPs are shedding over the sale of the Canadian National's West Indies fleet.

When Transport Minister Hees announced disposal of eight CN ships strikebound for the last 13 months, Lionel Chevrier (Lib., Montreal-Laurier) asked if this meant that Hees had "presided over the liquidation of the Canadian merchant fleet."

This is ironical. For the fact is that if anyone presided over the liquidation of the merchant navy, it was Chevrier when he was minister of transport, from 1945 to 1954.

* * *

At the close of the Second World War Canada had the fourth largest merchant navy in the world, mainly built by the government for military transport. The government then sold its wartime ships to Canadian shipowners, and for a couple of years these private owners made profits in spite of high Canadian operating costs.

In 1948, when there were 145 deep sea dry cargo vessels of Canadian registry totaling 1,000,000 gross tons, ocean freight rates began to drop. High cost Canadian ships edged into the red, and gave impetus to a move to transfer ships to lower-cost foreign registry. By the following year the number of Canadian flag deep sea vessels had dropped to 118. Today, with the sale of the eight CN ships to Cuban interests, there are only nine dry cargo ships flying the Canadian Red Duster — plus nine oil tankers.

* * *

In 1948 the Canadian Maritime Commission recommended to Chevrier that the government maintain a nucleus of 750,000 tons deadweight of deep sea shipping under Canadian registry as a requirement of national security. This would have involved an annual government subsidy of perhaps $5,000,000. The government rejected the recommendation.

In 1949 the commission recommended maintenance of a nucleus of 30 dry cargo ships, entailing an annual subsidy of about $3,000,000. In partial and limited acceptance of this recommendation, the government granted a one-year subsidy of nearly $3,000,000, and at the same time eased the restrictions on the transfer of of former government-owned ships to allied flags. And in the next six years our dry cargo tonnage sank to about one-third that of land-locked Switzerland!

* * *

The government's thinking, as explained by Prime Minister St. Laurent in 1949, was that subsidization was "a protectionist measure" which would prevent Canada's export customers from earning shipping dollars with which to buy Canadian goods.

In 1957 the Conservatives took over the government, but in spite of a statement a couple of years ago by Howard Green, now minister of public works, that the merchant fleet should be subsidized, the new government has continued the Liberal policy of no subsidization.

Now the Liberal opposition is trying to make political capital out of this and especially out of the sale of the CN ships, but probably without much effect. The record of the St. Laurent government on maintenance of a merchant fleet is embarrasingly legible for all to read.

* * *

In a financial sense, there is no reason to lament the vessels' sale for $2,800,000, with payment guaranteed by the Bank of America.

One expert with whom I discussed the sale described this as "a fabulous price." He had not expected the ships to bring more than $2,000,000.

In the fleet were five vessels of 4,532 tons each — popularly called 4,700-tonners. Recently a ship of this type sold for $185,000, so the CN's five were expected to bring about $925,000. The other three ships are 7,500-ton diesels — worth, it was thought, about $3,500,000 each.

Grand total: $1,975,000. Sale price: $2,800,000.

Interpreting the News

Jordan Is Playing for Time

By KEN WETHERALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OF all the myriad problems of the Middle East, the most perplexing and confusing concerns the future of the tiny kingdom of Jordan.

The one uncontestable fact about this country, mainly desert, is that it cannot support itself. Yet—and this is the crux of the problem—no one, least of all Jordan's Arab neighbors, really wants to pay the price of supporting the country.

This probably explains Jordan's surprise announcement at the United Nations that she would oppose the sending of a UN force or UN observers to replace the 3,000 British paratroopers now guarding her troubled borders.

* * *

The Jordanian action is viewed in London as a bargaining manoeuvre, designed to allow time for extension of negotiations on the terms of economic aid to the Middle East that may take some getting. But the Jordanian announcement has caused little comment.

In Whitehall, it is dismissed as of "little importance" and none of Britain's national newspapers deemed it sufficiently important to rate editorial comment. The general feeling appears to be that in the end Jordan will have no option but to do as she is requested.

The British weekly, The Economist, however, expresses some concern over President Eisenhower's suggestion that U.S. and British troops in the Middle East be, in effect, replaced by the "presence" of the UN.

The Economist says the role of UN forces remains obscure. "Are they to exert the direct influence which in the past belonged to the great powers? A special and permanent United Nations agency in the Middle East might be taken to have further implications: Does it mean that the members of the UN, including the Arab members, are being asked to recognize that the capacity for independence is limited, requiring the presence of a policeman from outside?"

* * *

The economist says the Arab countries have tended to reject suggestions for concerted defence partly from a determination to remain neutral, partly because every defence plan appeared to them an attempt to re-establish outmoded controls.

"They may regard a 'standby' force as just such another outmoded control; they may even begin, if the United Nations looks favorably on the plans, to entertain suspicions of the organization's neutrality."

How to Move a Woodpile

By GREGORY CLARK

UP at our cottage resort many of us still retain our wood stoves, though electricity and propane have long since invaded our bosky dells.

To get the wood for our stoves is no longer a simple matter, since most of the local inhabitants who formerly did such homely chores as wood chopping are now much more gainfully employed as skilled mechanics fixing outboard motors, repairing radio and TV sets, minding gas pumps at strategic points along the shore line, and similar unhorny-handed jobs.

One of my neighbors was lucky enough to get two cords of split birch and maple last winter; but the contract called for the wood to be delivered, by sleigh, to the point alongside his boathouse. The splitter drew the line at being a piler.

So there, all summer long, has lain the pyramidal heap of firewood. And my neighbor has carried it up, armful by armful, the hundred yards to his cottage, as he required it. A good cord still lay on the point until last week.

This neighbor is a strict teetotaller. He has for years resisted the trend in the community towards afternoon cocktail parties.

Last week he created a sensation. He invited all and sundry to a cocktail party. And each guest, ladies included, was required to carry up one armful of wood. The pile was cleaned up to the last stick.

What an insidious thing a woodpile is.

Taking a Chance

GORDON CHOWN, Progressive Conservative from Winnipeg South, has asked for a committee to be set up to investigate government efficiency.

When a similar committee was set up in Italy they found a department in full operation still governing Abyssinia—a colony Italy lost over fifteen years ago.

Mr. Chown should beware of the chance he is taking.

Letters to the Editor

Firewood Swindle

What, if anything, are the proper authorities doing to put a stop to unscrupulous wood dealers who plague this community?

I purchased a load of what I was assured was all dry fir. It looked an excellent load and it was dumped. It still looked all right. After I had paid the money and the man had gone, I saw a piece sticking out of the pile I did not like the look of. Pulling the wet pile apart I found the centre to be a mass of torredo-ridden hemlock. All efforts to trace the company by the name, address and phone number given led up a blind alley.

May I appeal to people buying wood to check it through thoroughly before paying for it? It is a disgrace that such business people are allowed to operate in our community and it is high time something was done about them.

Exaggerated Report

We were amazed to read the report of the RCMP musical ride at Nanaimo in the Aug. 15 issue where it is made to appear that everything went wrong.

The truth was very much the reverse. Everyone was delighted with the Lord Mayor's remarks. You could have stressed the excellence not only of the wonderful band, but the musical ride was something out of this world, and for the reporter to criticize a faux pas which did not in any way detract from the excellence of the performance was in exceedingly bad taste.

The incident of one of the riders falling during the ride was due to the disgraceful behavior of a photographer who touched off a flash bulb right into the horse's eyes as the horse was making a turn.

The trouble with the Lord Mayor's robes was negligable and the reporter is guilty of a gross exaggeration.

Scant Improvement

South Forests Envy Showers in North

Only scant improvement was noted by forestry officials yesterday in the forest fire situation in southern British Columbia, although conditions are much improved in the hard-hit northern districts.

Weather remains the key, with rain falling in the north and still looked for in the south.

Nelson forest district was described as the current trouble spot,—with six new fires reported yesterday for a total burning of 107 fires, fought by more than 1,100 men.

The Kirestova blaze, believed to be a link-up of four fires deliberately set, yesterday was raging over 5,000 acres. It is burning so briskly it is spotting ahead of the main fire.

To add to the hazard in that district, the weatherman predicted thunder and lightning storms for today—but no rain.

Best hope for southern B.C., including the Vancouver fire district which embraces Vancouver Island, is current fairly high humidity and overnight dew.

Forestry officials stress that no camp fires at all are permitted in any area except those specifically open.

Five new fires were reported in the Vancouver district yesterday, putting the total at 50 burning, fought by 493 men. Of these, the two nearest Victoria, at Goldstream and at Spectacle Lake on the Malahat, were reported held in guard.

'Don't Deal With Hoffa'

UNITY HOUSE, Pa. (AP)—The AFL-CIO Monday ordered all its affiliated unions to stop doing business with Teamsters Union president James R. Hoffa.

The action was voted 22 to 1 by the federation's executive council.

President George Meany said he expects all federation unions to observe the new quarantine on the 1,500,000-member Teamsters.

Yousuf Karsh, famed Ottawa photographer, was born in Turkish Armenia.

Town Cheers

Lee Cockrell, police chief of Boyd, Tex., gets treatment in Fort Worth hospital after he was shot down on the main street in Boyd. After the shooting, about 200 of the town's 500 population gathered in the street to praise the men that shot the police chief. Cockrell was shot while trying to arrest three men who had allegedly threatened to take Mayor B. W. Horn on a "one-way ride" if he didn't fire the police department.—(CPC.)

DETROIT (UPI)—The automobile industry yesterday began production of 1959 model cars, heralding what industry leaders predict will be a resurgence in the nation's economy.

Peace for 10 Months

IWA Accepts No Wage Increase

By DAVID FRANCIS

British Columbia's giant lumber industry appears assured of labor peace for another 10 months.

The International Woodworkers of America, District 1 policy committee has recommended to its 28,000 members employed by 148 coast operators that they accept a new contract with no wage increases.

Extension of the present scale until June 15, 1959, is part of the terms proposed by provincial government forestry advisor Gordon Sloan and now being voted upon by the woodworkers.

Although results of the vote are not expected until Aug. 24 or 25, one IWA official noted that the membership has always previously accepted the recommendation of its policy committee.

Reluctance of the membership to strike was indicated last month when only 65 per cent of the members voted for such action in a government-supervised ballot.

Also, many loggers have been left without work or pay packets by the long forest closure this summer and probably would not want to walk out just after returning to the woods.

Wage negotiations reopen next March 15.

Junior Rocks Open Playoffs With 'Bellies Here Tonight

Victoria Junior Shamrocks, beaten in last year's Canadian junior lacrosse final, begin the long playoff grind toward another chance at Dominion honors tonight at Memorial Arena.

Peewee Bradshaw's junior Irish host New Westminster Junior Salmonbellies tonight at 8.30 in the first game of a two-game, total-goal series for the B.C. coast championship. Second game will be played Thursday night in New Westminster.

Bradshaw and manager Archie Browning put the team through its final workout last night, then went through the difficult procedure of picking the 15 players who will dress for the game.

Playing on the first line will be Jack Showers, Bob McKee and Jack Wilson, who all saw considerable action with the senior Shamrocks this year.

High-scoring Stu Smith, Len Chekwech and Bob Harris will be on the second line, with Doug Flynn, Ron Marshall and Keith Lawrence on the third.

Don Hamilton, who starred with the junior Rocks in play-off competition last year, will be back in the nets.

Bradshaw has elected to go with five defencemen instead of dressing a utility forward. Sharing the defensive chores will be Russ West, Tom English, Phil Willis, Fred Mair and Norm Parker.

Winner of the series advances to the provincial finals at Trail.

Pils Take Lead In Boxla Semis

NEW WESTMINSTER — Breaking a close game open with the only four goals of the fourth quarter, Vancouver Pilseners took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-five Inter-City Lacrosse League semi-final by trimming Nanaimo Timbermen, 12-6, at Queen's Park Arena Monday night.

The game was played here because Vancouver Forum, Pilsener's home floor, has been taken over by a circus. Second game will be played here on Wednesday night.

Pilseners were too young and too fast for the Timbermen, their speedy attack steadily wearing down the older Nanaimo club. Rookies Wayne Pecknold and Pete Black led the attack for the winners, Pecknold getting four goals and three assists while Black scored twice and assisted once. Sophomore Fred Usselman also scored twice.

Bill Stuart was the only Timberman able to beat goalie Dave Unwin more than once. He scored twice.

It was 4-3 after the first quarter, 8-5 at the half and Timbermen, getting the only goal of the third quarter, had a chance at 6-8 starting the final 15 minutes. They got 10 of their 30 shots in the last quarter but Unwin didn't miss any while Pils got four of 10 shots behind Fred Fulla.

Yankees' Slump Puzzles Casey; Braves in Rout

What little interest there is left in the major league pennant races has, almost unbelievably, shifted from the National League to the American League.

It's not that anyone seriously believes that the New York Yankees are going to blow their still-huge lead but the fact remains that the Bronx Bombers are in their worst slump of the season while Milwaukee Braves have been looking so impressive that practically everyone has now conceded them a second successive National League championship.

The Braves made it seven in a row on Sunday by sweeping a twin bill from Philadelphia Phillies, 4-1 and 5-1. The double win put them eight games ahead of San Francisco Giants and nine ahead of Pittsburgh Pirates, who got as close as six games in a drive which had their fans talking pennant last week.

Tremendous pitching has done it for the Braves, who have in veterans Lew Burdette and Warren Spahn and youngsters Joey Jay, Carleton Willey and Juan Pizarro what is currently the hottest staff in baseball.

Since last Wednesday, Milwaukee pitching has allowed but seven runs and 37 hits in seven games and manager Fred Haney hasn't had to go to the bullpen once. Pizarro and Burdette, Sunday's winners, have gone the route twice. They swept a doubleheader, 4-2 and 9-2 Wednesday. Jay pitched a one-hit, 3-0 victory Thursday, Willey a six-hit, 1-0 win on Friday and Spahn kept the streak alive with a 2-1 triumph Saturday.

HOME RUNS HELP

First-baseman Frank Torre hit a grand-slam home run in Sunday's first game for the decisive runs as Pizarro lost his shutout in the ninth inning. Wes Covington hit his 22nd home run and scored the winning run on Johnny Logan's squeeze bunt as Burdette held the Phils in check in the second game.

Meanwhile, the Pirates slipped back into third place by losing twice to Cincinati Redlegs, 3-4 and 5-7, while the Giants outswatted Chicago Cubs, 8-6, in a battle of home runs.

Ex-Pirate Jerry Lynch was the hitting star for the Reds as Pittsburgh pitching faltered again. His third hit drove in a ninth-inning run which won the first game and he had two more hits, including a two-run homer in the second game.

STAYS THREE UP

Willie Mays' three-run homer was the big hit for the Giants, who also got home runs from rookie Leon Wagner and veteran Darryl Spencer. Bobby Thomson hit two and Dale Long and Ernie Banks one each for the Cubs. Banks' clout was his 38th, keeping him three up on Mickey Mantle, who hit his 35th for the Yankees.

But Mantle's hitting, which accounted for three runs, wasn't enough as the Yanks lost another to Boston Red Sox, 6-5. It was the eighth setback in 11 games for the defending champions and it cut their lead to 11½ games.

SPECIAL DRILL

It was enough to ruin a day off for the Yankees. Casey Stengel, a manager who takes nothing for granted and whose biggest tussle is against the complacency which so often wrecks successful clubs, had his team out for a special drill yesterday.

"I don't know what's wrong," the grizzled veteran grumbled, "but I'm aiming to find out."

Chicago White Sox, playing their best baseball of the season, sneaked by Cleveland, 3-2, to stay firmly in second place and get bold enough to mutter that they can still make a race for it.

Yesterday's only game saw Baltimore Orioles break loose for seven runs in the sixth inning to bounce Kansas City Athletics, 8-2.

Satch Close To Freedom

MIAMI, Fla. — A few more days like Sunday and pitcher Satchel Paige won't have to worry about going to jail.

The 50-year-old Paige was sentenced to 20 days in jail April 23 by municipal Judge Charles Snowden for speeding and driving without a licence.

However, the sports-loving judge deferred the sentence until Oct. 1 and told Paige a day would be lopped off each time he won a game for Marlins, scored a run or struck out archrival Buffalo first baseman Luke Easter.

Paige did everything but strikeout Easter Sunday as he scored a run and pitched his 10th victory of the season, a neat 6-1, two-hit over Buffalo. He now has only seven days left to work off.

Texan Badly Battered By Hard-Hitting Champ

By JACK CUDDY

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson climbed off the canvas Monday night and came on to floor Roy Harris four times for a 12th-round knockout and his first defeat in their gory title fight at Wrigley Field.

Game but blood-smeared Harris of Cut and Shoot, Tex., was so battered at the finish of action in the 12th round that his trainer, Bill Gore, asked referee Mushy Callahan to stop the bout. Callahan did that before the bell rang to start the 13th and he ruled it a 12th round knockout under California rules.

COUNT OF FOUR

Harris, seeking his 23rd straight victory and the world title, floored Patterson with a right to the chin for the count of four in the second round and buckled his knees twice later in that session.

Then Patterson began to work on the challenger's head and body. In the third round, he gashed Roy's left eyelid and brought blood to the nose.

Harris fought back bravely in the Texas tradition but took a terrific battering thereafter. He suffered a gash at the corner of his right eye in the fourth round that was bleeding profusely before the finish. He also suffered a cut in the fifth round further back on the right temple.

Harris bled so profusely that even Patterson's white trunks were stained crimson before the finish.

SAVED BY BELL

In the seventh round, Patterson floored the dark-haired challenger with a right to the chin for a count of eight. The bell rang almost instantly thereafter and may have saved him.

In the eighth round the bobbing and weaving Patterson, fighting from behind the defensive gloves at both sides of his head, dropped Harris twice.

Although Harris was weakening from the head pounding and the terrific smashes to the body, he continued fighting back and poking at Patterson with left jabs and now and then shooting in a sneaker right to the head.

Harris surprised the estimated 13,000 fans by fighting almost on even terms in the 11th round but near the finish he took a withering series of punches to the head.

Early in the 12th round, the champion floored the gory Harris with a right to the chin. Almost as soon as Harris regained his feet, a left hook staggered him and knocked him into the ropes. Near the end of the round a left-right combination to the chin sent him staggering backward and then a left to the head buckled his knees but he remained on his feet as the bell ended the action for that period.

Patterson, praising Harris for his gameness, said the challenger had hit him hard in the second round when he went down but that he had slipped at the time he was hit.

THIRD DEFENCE

It was Patterson's 15th knockout victory in his last 16 starts and it was his third defence of the heavyweight title he had won by knocking out Archie Moore in November, 1956.

Despite the challenger's 22 straight victories, he had gone into the ring an underdog at 6 to 1. Some of his supporters had figured that if 25-year-old Roy could last six or seven rounds, his great stamina would enable him to come on and outpoint the champion. But those supporters had not figured on the terrific body beating Patterson gave him round after round.

Harris showed great courage but defensive weaknesses as he back-pedalled and moved from side to side. He appeared unable to avoid the champion's body shots and he neither blocked nor slipped most of the head punches when the champion would get within range of him.

Patterson, who hadn't fought in nearly a year, earned respect because of the power in his punches and will receive at least a guaranteed $210,000 and perhaps more.

Patterson's manager, Cus D'Amato, said in the dressing room that the champion has a commitment to defend his title at Colorado Springs, Colo., next June. He did not indicate who the challenger might be.

Weakened Lions in 42-0 Loss

CALGARY—B.C. Lions, weakened by the loss of three of their best players through injuries and with their pass defence as woefully weak as it was in their opening game on Saturday, took a 42-0 trouncing as Calgary Stampeders made an impressive start in the WIFU race before 15,138 home-town fans Monday night.

Nobby Wirkowski, a veteran who acquired his Canadian citizenship this year and no longer counts as an import, riddled the Lion defences with some of his old-time passing wizardry. He and ex-Lion Maury Duncan completed 16 of 27 passes for 288 yards.

	P	W	L	F	A	Pts.
Calgary	1	1	0	42	0	2
Winnipeg	1	1	0	29	21	2
Edmonton	2	1	1	61	35	2
Saskatchewan	2	1	1	56	73	2
B.C. LIONS	2	0	2	33	91	0

Last night's scores: B.C. Lions 0 at Calgary 42; Saskatchewan 6 at Edmonton 40. Next game: Thursday, Winnipeg vs. Saskatchewan at Regina.

Minus backs Paul Cameron and Don Vicic and defensive end Don Lord, one of their most effective Canadians, and finding two games in three nights a bit too much, Lions were never in the game. Beaten, 49-33, by Saskatchewan Roughriders Saturday, they have now allowed 91 points in their first two games and hopes of a good season have been dimmed.

Fumbles, pass interceptions and some more costly penalties combined with their inept pass defence to make the Lions easy meat Monday.

Quarterback George Herring desperately tried to get an attack rolling but a hard-charging Calgary line gave him little time. He managed to complete 11 of 27 passes but they gained only 124 yards. On the ground, Lions got but 16 yards.

Four plays after the game started, Stamps were ahead. Lions received the kick-off but fumbled on their first play and Calgary recovered on the B.C. 10-yard line. A running play and a pass failed to gain but Doug Brown, a rookie from Victoria, dropped back to kick a field goal.

Minutes later, B.C. was penalized for no-yards on a kick and had another penalty tacked on for talking to lose 30 yards. Wirkowski hit Chuck Holloway with two 19-yard passes before Jim Bakhtiar, the Iranian prince who plays fullback, ploughed over from two yards. Brown converted.

LEAD 17-0

Then Holloway pulled in a 38-yard pass from Wirkowski and ran the last six yards, and when Brown again converted, the Stamps had a 17-0 lead by the end of the first quarter.

Duncan took over the quarterbacking in the second quarter and with Gotta and Holloway on the receiving end, passed to a third touchdown, Gotta scoring. Brown's convert made it 21-0 at the half.

Wirkowski passed the Stamps to the one-yard line in the third quarter, then sneaked over for another touchdown. Then he passed to Lynn Bottoms for another score early in the fourth quarter. Ernie Warlick intercepted a pass on the B.C. 30-yard line and ran over for the final points.

'New' Eskimos Rout Roughies

EDMONTON—Led by three new imports and displaying a game brand-new to their home-town fans, Edmonton Eskimos trampled Saskatchewan Roughriders, 40-6, before 18,000 fans Monday night to balance their record at one win and one defeat in the young WIFU season.

Stung by their 29-21 defeat at Winnipeg Thursday, Eskimos made two player changes which paid off although they surprised many of their followers. Benched were holdover ends Bill Walker and Joe Mobra as newcomers Don Stiller from University of Oklahoma and Jim Letcavits from University of Kansas took over.

They took full advantage of their chance by starring in a game which saw the Eskimos take to the air to beat the Riders at their own game. Jackie Parker threw three touchdown passes while Don Getty threw one. Just to keep the Rider defence honest, Normie Kwong and Johnny Bright, the fullback terrors, each crossed the Saskatchewan line once.

Also starring was Jo-Bob Smith, a Texas halfback who has shown he can fill the shoes of Ken Hall, who deserted Eskimos after a good rookie season last year. Smith scored two touchdowns and kicked four converts.

Edmonton's sometimes sensational passing resulted in a touchdown midway through the first quarter, Parker eluding tackler after tackler before pitching to Stiller in the end zone. Just before the first quarter ended, Bright went over after a spectacular 90-yard run and when Smith kicked the convert it was 13-0.

THIRD TOUCHDOWN

Eskimos started right off again in the second quarter, Parker passing for 30 yards to Letcavits during a 55-yard march which ended with Parker tossing to Smith for the third touchdown. Then Parker started another march with a 28-yard pass to Stiller which ended with a 25-yard scoring pass to Letcavits.

In the third quarter, Kwong, Bright and Parker carried 45 yards in five plays with Kwong going over for the fifth Edmonton score.

Getty took over at quarterback in the fourth quarter and the game's most-sensational play gained 43 yards, Getty passing to Stiller, who lateralled to Letcavits, who lateralled to lineman Art Walker, who got to the Rider 25-yard line. Then Getty pitched to Smith for the touchdown on the next play.

Altogether, Eskimos completed 19 of 26 passes for 385 yards. They gained 252 yards on the ground, 167 of them by Bright.

Evans Enters Biggest Spring For Top Ladder Derby Prize

Dave Evans, weighing in a 29-pound spring salmon, took top honors in the annual Victoria-Saanich Inlet Angler's Association ladder derby fish-off Sunday, winning the first-place prize of $500.

Evans, whose fish was worth just over $17 a pound, took his salmon off Chesterfield Rock at the Goldstream end of Saanich Inlet.

Trolling off Willis Point, Chris Forstrom boated a 28-pound 10-ounce fish to take second place in the derby and win the outboard motor.

Finishing in third place was Mrs. Irene Jaundrew, who took a 19¾ pounder from Mistery Bay. She won a movie camera and projector.

Mrs. G. Baker weighed in a 17-pounder to win the shotgun for fourth place.

Winners of the top four prizes all used Strip Teaser lures.

Fishing was fairly good as approximately 400 anglers took part in the fish-off after earning rungs on the ladder during the 10 qualifying competitions this summer.

It took a six-pound, 11-ounce fish to take the 40th and last prize, and 16 contestants weighed in salmon over 10 pounds.

Speaking Briefly

Big Four Football Starts Today

Big Four football season gets under way today with Hamilton and Ottawa rating as the teams to watch during the gruelling 14-game schedule.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats, Grey Cup champions, start defence of their Big Four title against the Alouettes in Montreal. Toronto Argonauts travel to Ottawa for a clash with the Rough Riders in the first of seven games scheduled under the lights.

Hamilton's defensive-minded Ti-Cats have been rated as slight favorites to repeat but Ottawa's 3-0 pre-season exhibition record has won it many a football fan's choice as the East's most probable representative in the Grey Cup game Nov. 29 in Vancouver.

Hamilton won't dress much-publicized Fran Rogel, former Pittsburgh Steeler star who had been counted upon to fill the shoes of halfback Cookie Gilchrist, now with Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Montreal's hopes depend primarily on a small nucleus of seasoned imports with a handful of homebred players. The Als are considered weaker than last season when they finished third after reigning as league champs for three straight years.

Ottawa has been hit by injuries to three import stars—quarterback Tom Dimitroff, halfback Gerry Nesbitt from Arkansas and guard Larry Hayes. The Argos are considered improved from last season, both in ground-gaining power and in the line.

MARLENE STEWART STREIT, seeking her second U.S. ... in three years, easily advanced to the second round yesterday by scoring a 7 and 6 victory over Mrs. Margaret Watkins of Frosse Point Farms, Mich. The Toronto golfer led an advance which included Canadians Mrs. Lindsay Mussels of Montreal, Janet WcWha of St. Lambert, Que.; Katherine Halleur of Malton, Ont.; defending champion JoAnne Gunderson of Seattle and Rosemary Neundorff of Toronto . . . Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League have returned defenceman Jim Thomson to Toronto Maple Leafs and it was indicated yesterday that the 31-year-old veteran would retire from hockey.

MUSCULAR Mike Souchak smashed the St. Paul Open's 72-hole record with a 25-under-par 263 and won the $25,000 tournament for the second time, firing a 65 on the final round Sunday to overtake Sam Snead. The veteran Snead, who led by one going into the final round, finished with a 70 and wound up with a 267 and in a tie with Julius Boros, who fired an eight-under-par 64 Sunday . . . George Dickerson, former chief assistant to the late Red Sanders, Monday night was named head football coach at UCLA . . . Baltimore Orioles have signed Pete Ward, of Portland, son of ex-professional hockey star Jimmy Ward, to a contract and sent him to Vancouver to finish out the season . . . Mal Anderson of Australia Monday defended his Newport tennis title with a 6-4, 7-5, 7-5 win over countryman Ashley Cooper.

NIGEL OAKLEY, a London doctor, won the 50-meter championship in the small bore rifle prone position yesterday with a world record score of 396, enabling England to win the team title in the world rifle championship in Moscow. The Soviet team set a world record in the men's small bore free pistol event with 2,776 points, an event in which Cpl. Jim Zavitz of the Nanaimo RCMP placed fifth with a score of 527 . . . Quarterback Cotton Davidson, who played his college football at Baylor and was first draft choice of Baltimore Colts in 1954, has been signed by Calgary Stampeders of the WIFU . . . Willie Goggin won the U.S. Seniors Open golf title at Spokane Sunday, chalking up a 72-hole score of 270 to edge Gene Zarazen by one stroke. Fred Wood of Vancouver, the defending champion, had 278 . . . Tsuyoshi Yamanaka of Japan broke the world record for the 200-metre freestyle by 1.9 seconds in the Japanese national swimming championships, covering the distance in 2:03.3.

Black Ball Peace Bid

Mediator Named In Ferry Dispute

Mainland Lawyer Appointed

By PETER BRUTON

The provincial government yesterday appointed a New Westminster lawyer as a mediator in the long-smouldering Black Ball Ferries labor dispute.

Craig Munro, QC, was named by Labor Minister Lyle Wicks as a commissioner under the Labor Relations Act in an attempt to effect a settlement in the dispute.

JUNE 23 TAKEOVER

The Black Ball Ferries have been operating under provincial government control since June 23 and were taken over a few hours before engineers and officers' unions were due to strike. The men walked off the ships a few days later but were ordered to return to work under provisions of a court injunction.

Mr. Wicks said yesterday that letters had gone out to the Seafarers' International Union, the National Association of Marine Engineers, and the Canadian Merchant Service Guild informing them of the government's move.

He said Mr. Munro would probably start mediation proceedings between the union and company officials in Vancouver within two or three days.

MEETINGS HELD

The minister said one or two meetings had been held between government officials and the two parties during the past two months but that the government had taken the view that the dispute was tied up with the CPR dispute.

"But there is increasing evidence from the unions that they want some action," said Mr. Wicks.

Mr. Munro has had "a lot of experience" on conciliation boards both as chairman and as a nominee for both labor and management, the minister stated.

The commissioner will have power to recommend a settlement to the minister if he cannot get the two parties to agree.

THIRD MEDIATOR

It is the third time in as many weeks that the provincial government has appointed a mediator in a B.C. labor dispute. The other two were the IWA wage dispute with coast lumber operators and the plumbers and electricians lockout in Vancouver.

The engineers and masters are asking for a 19 per cent wage boost over two years, as recommended by a majority conciliation board, while the company has offered 8 per cent.

The ferries will continue under government operation until a settlement has been reached. At present the government is keeping all revenues from the service and the increase will be paid out of this fund.

Restaurants Bar Seeing-Eye Dog

Majority of Victorians are living up to their reputations as dog lovers—but some business establishments are slipping, sightless Henry A. Young, a visitor from San Francisco, complained last night. Mr. Young, here being consoled by his seeing-eye companion, Ruth, said he has found difficulty entering many of Victoria's "better" class restaurants because of his canine friend. However, passers-by are very kind to her, he said.—(Colonist photo by Ted Harris.)

West Coast Waters Give Bountiful Harvest

Everything is big about west coast coho this season. At left is Dover Fish products manager with a new world record 32-pound coho caught last week by 72-year-old Walter W. Walker near Sooke, and at right is part of the biggest west coast run of coho since 1945 being unloaded at the B.C. Packers Ltd.'s Victoria outer wharf plant. Grader Michael Markow sorts a 10,000 pound catch of coho, humpbacks and spring brought from west coast yesterday by the Louvel III, the fifth similar load from the same boat this year.

Catchers Keepers Says Owner

They All Covet Giant Coho

DUNCAN — The manager of a local fishing firm that bought a 32-pound coho believed to hold the world record, is going to return it to the 72-year-old man who caught it or have it mounted himself.

"I've had three or four private offers from people who know I have it, but I think it should be returned to the man that caught it," said Frederick Arscott, owner of Dover Fish Products.

Walker W. Campbell, 72, 1740 Fort Street, Victoria, boated the fish Aug. 19, off Secretary Island near Sooke, and weighed it in at Sooke Seafood Products.

The fish is believed to be a title holder that will beat the 31-pounder caught in 1947 at Cowichan Bay by Mrs. Patricia Hallberg, Victoria.

"This fish will never be cut up," said Mr. Arscott, who bought the fish with a regular shipment from Sooke Sea Foods who got it from Mr. Campbell.

If Mr. Campbell doesn't want it, said Mr. Arscott, he might mount it himself and present it to the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce of which he is a member.

"A record holder should never be cut up," he said.

There is some doubt if the fish will be accepted as a record-breaker. Campbell was on a commercial fishing trip when he caught the fish on a rod with regulation coho gear.

After it was weighed in, a Fisheries Department official inspected the fish and said there is no doubt it is a coho.

And in Mr. Arscott's mind there is no doubt it is a record-holder. "It's a beauty," he said.

'Dividends' Continue

B.C. Won't Follow Alberta Example

British Columbia isn't going to follow Alberta's lead in doing away with its Social Credit "dividend" payments, according to Premier Bennett.

In fact the $28 homeowners tax rebate here might be increased, he said.

The premier was commenting on an announcement from Edmonton that Alberta is shelving its citizen dividend legislation at the end of this year as it launches a five-year development program including special capital projects.

"I'm not going to debate Mr. Manning's policy," said Premier Bennett. "Conditions differ from province to province."

But, he added, B.C. was definitely going to continue its $28 rebate to homeowners, and there was a good chance it would be increased.

"It's permanent policy of this government," he said.

Premier Bennett added that Alberta's government was outstanding and that "there would never have been a Social Credit government in B.C. if it hadn't been for the Social Credit government in Alberta."

New Chamber Official Here in September

John Coppinger of Winnipeg, newly - appointed managing secretary of Victoria Chamber of Commerce, will arrive here Sept. 15 to assume his duties. Until Mr. Coppinger arrives, Lou Worrell, assistant manager, will be in charge of the chamber.

Lighted Gardens Honored

The home of Myrddin Evans, 431 Chester Street, won first prize in the Victoria Jaycees' first annual garden lighting contest.

Second was the home of Victor Little, 2438 Esplanade, and the home of Mrs. H. Cousins, 1085 Burnside Road, was third.

Mr. Evans won a $50 cheque and an engraved centennial dogwood plaque. Mr. Little won a plaque and an outdoor lighting fixture and Mrs. Cousins won a plaque.

City Plumber Strikes It Rich

A 22-year-old city plumber won the main prize of $1,000 as a "gold rush contest" Sunday evening ended three days of ceremonies opening Kinsmen Gorge Park in Esquimalt.

Winner of the guessing game award was Dennis E. Greenwood, 1636 Hillside, who may "put the money down" on a home for his wife Mildred and himself.

Other winners were Cyril Butler, 376 Kinver, $300; Mrs. A. Coey, 120 Homer, $100, and George West, 1221 Carlisle, and Mrs. T. Stevens, 211 Maddock, $50 each.

Estimated attendance for the three days was 15,000 persons. On the final day, the park was dedicated by Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt and a canoe race was won by the West Saanich Indian reserve, which took the first two places ahead of third-running East Saanich reserve.

Tickets for the next Kinsmen project, a bingo game in Memorial Arena Sept. 15, go on sale at Eaton's store tomorrow.

PNE Triumph

Saanich Float Wins

Saanich municipal employees' float, one of the best in the Victoria parade May 19, won two major prizes in the parade yesterday which opened Vancouver's Pacific National Exhibition.

The three-part float—an ox team, a log cabin and a modern home symbolizing Saanich's part in the B.C. centenary — won $200 as the best float with a centennial theme, and $100 as the best float in the associations and municipalities class.

Prizes will help offset the $500 construction cost and $250 transportation bill for the float, made by Saanich employees under direction of licence inspector Roy Wootten and assessor Jack Menzies.

Despite Mr. Wootten's offer to find a place on the float for Miss Victoria, 18-year-old Mary Gibson, she did not take part in the parade. No room was set aside for her on Victoria's float, a model of Queen Victoria, because it was thought she would not return home in time from the Miss Canada pageant at Hamilton.

She came home in plenty of time, on Sunday, but said yesterday she "never heard anything about going to the parade."

Miss Gibson, room-mate of the winner, 19-year-old Danica d'Hondt of Vancouver, won a $100 scholarship which she will probably use for "some sort of a business course" at Victoria College.

Handicapped Team Needs Wheelchairs for Opponents

Victoria's handicapped wheelchair basketball team is handicapped in its ambitions to play this season by a shortage of wheelchairs for handicapped opponents.

Gordon Korber, 701 Vancouver Street, playing manager of the team, said last night old wheelchairs are needed so that their opponents can be mobile.

"We've had two old wooden-wheel chairs donated so far," he said, "but we need the more modern type with metal wheels which can be folded up for putting them in cars."

Mr. Korber said 10 chairs were needed so parts from them could be used to make up five good chairs for opponents.

"We hope to give demonstrations of wheelchair basketball at regularly scheduled basketball games," he said.

Mr. Korber may be telephoned at 4-6960.

Reluctant Groom Changes Tune

LEON, Spain (UPI) — Pio Cela, a young engineer who walked out on his own wedding here last week, said goodbye to bachelorhood yesterday by finally answering "yes" to his marriage vows.

Last Friday, as he knelt beside his bride-to-be—society prominent Magia Antonio Herrero — and heard the priest ask if he wished this woman for his bride, he answered, "Frankly, no."

Yesterday, to the relief of all concerned, he answered the same question with a ringing "yes."

Last Friday the bride fainted.

Today she smiled.

Friends of the reluctant groom say that his "no" of last week was the result of an attack of nerves. But yesterday, nervous or not, he got through the ceremony without any surprising answers.

Convertible Kitchen Suits Needs of All

ANTWERP (WNS) — Henriette Simon of Antwerp, Belgium, has been named the best kitchen architect of the year. She designed a convertible kitchen to suit the needs of all women. She pointed out that women have different culinary needs according to their family position.

The bachelor girl provides different meals than the young bride, the young bride has different requirements than a mother of four children, and eventually a woman may be left alone again as a widow with grown-up youngsters.

"In most European countries it is easier to get a convertible kitchen than to try to find a new apartment," Mrs. Simon pointed out.

Bulk of Canada's Bankruptcies

Quebeckers Go Broke

MONTREAL (CP)—Quebec province has a bad reputation for business failures.

[illegible] part of Canada.

Every year, between two-thirds and three-quarters of the Canadian businesses that fold, [illegible]

In 1957, the Dominion bureau of statistics reports, there were 3,480 business failures in Canada—2,554 of them in Quebec. In 1956, there were 2,849 bankruptcies and 2,149 of them in Quebec.

[illegible] 1957 and [illegible] 1956.

The high rate for Quebec is no short-term phenomenon provoked by unusual circumstances.

A typical week will see an average of 40 businesses give up in Quebec, 10 in Ontario, perhaps one each in Alberta and British Columbia, and one-to-none in other provinces.

A survey last year by the Chambre de Commerce concluded that most failures were due to lack of capital, lack of experience on the part of the manager, negligence or high living on low assets. But these reasons apply to failures anywhere, not only Quebec.

Most experts concede there is no single reason but a combination of many.

One may be that the Quebec courts are too lenient in granting bankruptcies, the Quebec Bar Association submits.

Quebec companies tend to be family-owned and controlled and therefore of modest size. They are unable like large companies to afford services of specialists in various departments such as sales, public relations, accounting and product control. Often, rather than hire a badly-needed expert, the owner hires his nephew.

Also, two competitors, instead of merging and splitting a profitable market between them, seem to prefer to battle each other.

No. 3 In a series on tobacco research

The International Cancer Congress and Cigarette Smoking

On July 6-12th. in London, England, 2,000 scientists from 63 countries attending the 7th. International Cancer Congress—an event held every four years—were given the latest data on cancer and smoking by the world's foremost cancer experts. Rothmans Research scientists were also there and have examined the papers submitted along with their own findings.

SINCE THE publication on June 23rd. of the first in this series of research announcements, there has been widespread interest shown in the Canadian press and smokers have asked for more information. Here is a brief summary of the facts as they stand today:-

1. Rothmans Research Division accepts the statistical evidence linking lung cancer with heavy smoking. This is done as a precautionary measure in the interest of smokers.

2. The exact biological relationship between smoking and cancer in mankind is still not known and a direct link has not been proved.

3. In research laboratory work, inhalation studies on animals have been largely negative. However, the application of tobacco tar on the skin of certain animals has produced cancer and therefore indicates that tobacco smoke condensate contains carcinogenic substances which are at least active to those animals.

4. The suspected chemicals in tobacco smoke that have produced cancer in animals have been identified. In fractionation studies, the majority of the active carcinogenic agents were located in the fraction which is eluted with carbon tetrachloride from the neutral tar. This fraction represents only 1.7% of total tobacco tar and, when applied in the heavy concentration of 10%, produced 100% cancer on animal skin.

5. Further studies were then conducted to determine whether there was a threshold level at which total tobacco tar would not produce cancer on animal skin. It was discovered that there was a dose level at which the development of animal cancer was so small, and the latent period before the formation of tumours so long, that for all material purposes it represented a threshold level. This minimum level is about one-third the optimum level.

6. Transposing this data to cigarette smoking, an increasing section of scientific opinion believes that if the tar intake from a single cigarette were reduced to the range of 18 to 20 milligrams (mgs.), there would be a significant reduction in the possible risk of lung cancer. Most of the world's cigarettes today yield in the vicinity of 30 mgs. and there are many which exceed 40 mgs.

N.B. The control at 18-20 mgs. of the tar intake from a single Rothmans King Size cigarette is achieved as follows:-

(i) the use of tobaccos of lower tar content,

(ii) the fitting of an effective filter which reduces further, and in correct proportion, the amount of tar entering the mouth and lungs, and

(iii) the stubbing out of the butt of a cigarette equivalent to about one-third of its total length (for which purpose the extra length of Rothmans King Size is provided).

The balance between satisfaction, filtration and ease of draw is constantly checked by scientific instruments.

7. There are no scientific grounds to justify the reduction of tar in a single cigarette to less than 18-20 mgs., except in the case of very heavy smokers of more than 2 packs (40 cigarettes) a day.

N.B. To such smokers Rothmans advocates moderation.

Reducing the tars in cigarettes to the level of 18-20 mgs. does not affect the pleasure of smoking. Indeed, once people have smoked such cigarettes, they find satisfaction and enjoyment in the cleaner smoke. Below 18-20 mgs., tobacco begins markedly to lose its taste and aroma, and there would be less and less satisfaction as the readings drop.

8. Unburned tobacco contains no cancer forming agents. They are formed only during combustion. Any plant material sets free cancer forming agents when burned at a high temperature. (If lettuce were smoked, the result would be the same.)

From about the middle of a cigarette length to the butt, the temperature reaches 880°C. (±30°C.). When this temperature is reduced below 700°C., the biological activity on the skin of animals is reduced to almost nil.

As a further precautionary measure, research projects on this problem include the search for a chemical to make tobacco burn at a lower temperature.

N.B. The present straight virginia manufacturing process as used by Rothmans employs no chemicals whatsoever. Nor would any chemicals be used unless a direct biological link (as distinct from a statistical link) makes it necessary to treat tobacco with such a catalyst.

9. Some statistical studies indicate a higher mortality rate from lung cancer among cigarette smokers than among smokers of cigars and pipes. However, in laboratory experiments, the carcinogenic activity from cigar and pipe smoke was found to be greater than in cigarette smoke, because, burning at a high temperature for a longer time, combustion is more complete in cigars and in pipes.

10. The tobacco-cancer problem is difficult and nebulous. It has brought forth many conflicting theories and evidences. But great knowledge and a better understanding have been gained through research. The controversy is a matter of public interest. The tar contents of the world's leading brands of cigarettes are today under the scrutiny of medical and independent research.

A list of cigarettes, some of which have achieved significant tar reductions of up to 40% in the past year, was tabled at the International Cancer Congress by an eminent cancer expert.

N.B. The performance of Canadian made Rothmans King Size cigarettes (as previously certified by independent research) showed that:-

Rothmans King Size Filter yields from 14.4% to 38.7% less tars than the four other best selling Filter brands in Canada.

Rothmans King Size Untipped yields from 26.5% to 34.0% less tars than the three best known plain end brands in Canada.

ROTHMANS Research Division welcomes this opportunity to reiterate its pledge:-

(1) to continue its policy of all-out research,

(2) to impart vital information as soon as available, and

(3) to give smokers of Rothmans cigarettes improvements as soon as they are developed.

In conclusion, as with all the good things of modern living, Rothmans believes that with moderation smoking can remain one of life's simple and safe pleasures.

'Our Job to Prevent Law of the Jungle'

On Economic Gravy Train

B.C. Among 'Haves' In Future Expansion

OTTAWA (CP) — Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia may lead the country in economic [illegible] 25 years.

Other provinces, too, may get in on the economic gravy train but the outlook is bleak for the Atlantic region including New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

In fact, suggests Dr. R. D. Howland of Halifax, unless some imaginative and bold steps are taken the perpetuation of stagnation and poverty in the Atlantic region may isolate these provinces from the rest of Canada.

300-PAGE REPORT

[illegible] former Nova Scotia government official, now a member of the Borden energy commission, makes the proposals in a 300-page report prepared for the Gordon economic commission and made public yesterday.

[illegible]

labor force would follow similar patterns with Ontario, Quebec and B.C. leading the parade [illegible] rising industrialization.

Sooner than expected, says Dr. Howland, the term "Prairie region" may not denote just grain economy.

Prospects for the Northland also appear dubious. Unless the federal government put on some special push, Dr. Howland couldn't see the Yukon and the Northwest Territories sharing to any extent in the quarter century general economic expansion.

The North is a huge storeland of resources but their development will have to await the using up of more easily accessible [illegible].

The weakness in the East is inefficiency caused by market problems and not by a lack of individual drive. It was most apparent in the perpetuation of small marginal farm, fishing and woodlot operations.

Dr. Howland suggests that Atlantic resources industries have to be built up not through bonuses but through offerings by the central government and private sources of long-term investment capital.

Stay Outside Limits Iceland Warns U.K.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (Reuters) — Any British government attempt to violate the new Icelandic offshore fishing limits would be an attack on Iceland, an Icelandic leader said Saturday.

Fishing Minister L. [illegible] Josefsson was commenting on reports that the British navy would support British trawlers in protecting [illegible] fishing limits which will go into effect on Sept. 1.

Iceland extended its offshore fishing limits from four to 12 miles [illegible] Sept. 1 [illegible]

Dead Mother Saves Baby's Life in Crash

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP) — [illegible] the flaming [illegible] North [illegible].

[illegible] disregarded personal safety and plunged into the [illegible] to trace the cries. [illegible] later, 2-year-old Cindy Lou Young was brought out into the open. She appeared to be only slightly injured.

The child had been sleeping on the lap of her mother, Mrs. Jaqueline Young, 18, of Nantucket.

The mother was killed. But even as she died her body provided the cushion to save the baby's life.

Refugee Hikers Apply to Canada

SALZBURG, Austria (UP) — A group of six Yugoslav students who escaped to Austria in a dramatic flight across snow-covered peaks have applied for emigration to Canada, police said yesterday.

The Belgrade students, all members of the anti-Communist Mountaineering Club, were granted political asylum in Austria after climbing their way to freedom July 7.

Island Folk Radioactive

BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI) — [illegible] two Marshall Islanders dusted with fallout from the [illegible] Pacific bomb tests are still radioactive, it was disclosed yesterday.

Part of their radioactivity stems from nuclear reactions which would be a characteristic effect of a so-called "clean" H-bomb exploded under [illegible] circumstances.

The Story of YOUR NEWSPAPER

PART II — "Local News"

IT'S A FEW minutes before deadline in the newsroom, and half a dozen reporters are batting out the final words of their stories for the first edition. The typewriters go clackety-clack, there's the bang of paste pots and scissors, the scrape of footsteps hurrying back and forth, a mumble of voices, and over in one corner the teletype machines maintain their steady tap-tap as news from all over the world pours off the wires.

It looks like another uneventful trick, with copy whisking down to the composing room and the last odds and ends being cleared up. The city editor has made up his local page dummy—a miniature news page showing the printers where each story will be placed, how long it will be and what head size it will carry. He pauses a moment to admire the make-up, wondering if he ought to change the position of a picture.

At the City Desk

Suddenly a loud, rasping voice echoes through the newsroom. Some ignore it — it's not their business. Others unconsciously follow each syllable as police headquarters broadcasts a message to "all cars." The newsroom receiver picks up the information, as quickly but without excitement the metallic voice gives the few details: Store hold-up . . . Fort Street . . . youth in dark suit . . . seen running toward Douglas . . .

One by one the squad cars report in by radio and speed on their way. But seconds before this the city editor has called a reporter and a photographer to get to the scene as quickly as they can. One reporter is phoning the store, another is calling the police station, a third has settled down by the police radio to get any further details.

* * *

AS THOUGH they had been sitting there expecting this emergency, the team of editors, reporters and photographers clicks into action, methodically gathering all the available facts and background. The first edition will carry the gist of the story, later editions will add more detail, perhaps ending with capture of the fugitive.

It isn't quite like the movies show it. Nobody screams "Stop the press!" Nobody runs around or slams phones on their cradles. With his men on the job, the city editor quietly informs the composing room that there will be an alteration in the paper, and with one eye on the clock he keeps the copy moving to the printers.

It's part of the business of newspapering to be ready for anything, at any time. It takes a special type of organization, and a special type of mind, to be quickly adjustable to that sort of demand.

Most newspapers follow much the same system in their local coverage. The nerve centre is the city desk, where the city editor and his assistants direct the reporters, receive their typed copy as it is turned in, write headlines for each story and keep things moving smoothly. The city editor calls for pictures where required, plans stories for tomorrow or next week, and translates instructions of the managing editor into action.

* * *

UNDER the city editor are reporters who have their regular "beats." There are men to cover the government, the city hall, the courts, the police and so on. Some are assigned to "general" and are available to report meetings, special commissions, interviews and similar events. When a big story, like the recent visit of the Princess, turns up nearly everybody is given part of it to handle. The men on the desk may fit material from half a dozen reporters into one composite story or hand it to a reporter to do a "wrap-up."

While all this is in motion the several departments of the newsroom are carrying on. The sports editor and his reporters have written up last night's games, worked out feature stories, handled the mass of wire copy rolling in from stadiums, arenas, golf courses and tennis courts around the globe, and arranged to cover an afternoon's sports meet and tonight's lacrosse or hockey.

The social department has filled its allotted pages with weddings, showers, garden parties and women's items. Movie and drama reviewers, columnists, feature writers and cartoonists have all contributed to the day's pages. The Island editor has assembled items from his string of correspondents, the "Vox Populi" letters have done their quota of editorials and features.

By some process of magic completely baffling to the casual visitor and even to old news hands, the whole flood of words, sentences, paragraphs and pictures is carried along to the point where suddenly they all find their places in the newspaper's pages, and another edition is ready to roll.

* * *

OBVIOUSLY coverage of day-to-day events or special big occasions is expensive. Wages, transportation, telegraph and telephone tolls . . . these and a score of other costs pile up before anything even appears on paper. And once the story is obtained there are still greater costs involved, type-setting, stereotyping, printing and a return on the hundreds of thousands of dollars invested in linotype machines and presses.

The investment in any modern city newspaper runs into millions of dollars. A difference of a few cents in the cost of newsprint or labor may make or break the whole structure. For many a community today the biggest — though unnoticed — news is that it is still getting the news, delivered daily, on the doorstep, and in permanent form.

(This is the second in a series of articles published by Victoria Press Ltd. to describe the operation of a modern newspaper.)

How a modern Telephone plan can help you

Telephone planning is a new application of an old principle. Furniture and household appliances are purchased to make family living more comfortable, then located for maximum convenience and efficiency. Telephone planning simply recognizes that the telephone is an essential "household appliance" and should be located to satisfy specific needs. The addition of one or more extra phones, though moderate in cost, increases telephone efficiency very substantially.

How many phones do you need? Where should they be placed? With your own family living pattern as a guide, you are the best judge — but we have provided a sample telephone-planned home and a check list to help you decide. If you would like more personal assistance, don't hesitate to call us.

1 BEDROOM PHONE
Especially convenient in a two-storey house; eliminates running downstairs to answer the phone when you're working in the bedroom area. Adds the security of being able to summon help in a night-time emergency.

2 LIVINGROOM PHONE
Centrally located in the heart of the family living area. Most appreciated in the early evening, when right-after-dinner calls can be answered without getting up from the easy chair.

3 KITCHEN PHONE
The housewife spends the greater part of her working day in the kitchen. A phone here saves hundreds of steps, cuts her working time by many minutes.

4 WORKSHOP PHONE
Permits telephoning without leaving do-it-yourself projects. Handy to the laundry room next door. Also saves stair-climbing.

YOUR HOME NEEDS ONE OR MORE EXTENSION PHONES IF:

- ☐ You have to run up or downstairs to answer the phone.
- ☐ You have to walk more than twenty feet to a phone from any room in the house where members of the family spend much of their work or leisure time.
- ☐ You receive many telephone calls at night.
- ☐ You entertain frequently.
- ☐ You receive a number of business calls at home.
- ☐ You have teen-agers in the family — or small children who must be kept in sight while you answer the phone.
- ☐ The man of the house is away for long periods, leaving the housewife alone at night.

HOW MUCH WILL A MODERN TELEPHONE PLAN COST?

Surprisingly little, for the amount of downright easy living you get! For example, you could have phones (on a 2-party line) in the kitchen, basement, recreation room and master bedroom for only $6.60* per month. Whatever your plan calls for, you can work out the cost very quickly from the following table:

TYPE	PER MONTH
First phone (2-party line)	$4.20*
First phone (private line)	$5.35*
Fixed extension (each)	$1.20*

*Plus tax

COLOR PHONES

Probably you'll want at least one phone in color—and there are ten colors to choose from: Turquoise; Sunlight Yellow; Sand Beige; Dawn Grey; Garnet Red; Classic Ivory; Jade Green; Camellia Pink; Gardenia White; Forget-Me-Not Blue. If your telephone plan includes color, add a one-time charge of $12 for each color phone; all other rental and installation charges remain the same.

BUILDING A NEW HOME OR RE-MODELLING?

Then by all means take advantage of the Telephone Company's free offer to pre-wire your home. All wiring is installed according to your telephone plan; concealed to avoid drilling holes in finished surfaces. There is no charge for this service—you pay only the regular charges when the instruments go into use.

Mediation Efforts Fail

Ferry Arbitration Next

The Canadian Pacific coast steamship dispute is expected to go to arbitration after failure Saturday of federal mediator Eric Taylor to bring about a settlement between the three "seamen's" unions and the company over three key issues.

No agreement on wages, overtime or the effective date of the company contribution to a welfare plan was reached, Mr. Taylor said shortly before departing on a lecture tour.

At the outset of recent talks, there were 29 points in dispute in the case of the Seafarers' International Union, seven involving the Canadian Merchant Service Guild and nine involving the National Association of Marine Engineers, he noted.

ISSUES 'NARROWED'

He termed the narrowing of the issues "encouraging."

Mr. Taylor said the dispute could be referred either to voluntary or compulsory arbitration.

The CPR suggested voluntary arbitration early Saturday before the final breakdown of talks.

SIU REFUSES

Asked if the SIU would accept the suggestion, port agent Norman Cunningham said, "No, we will not take up anything the CPR says."

The SIU, he said, has always been opposed to arbitration.

Capt. E. W. Meadows of the Merchant Service Guild noted that his union had suggested voluntary arbitration July 1.

He blamed failure of the talks on the refusal of the CPR to budge from its offer of an eight per cent increase over two years, incorporated in the federal legislation.

Proposal of Richard Greaves, head of the National Association of Marine Engineers, that Premier Bennett appoint a mediator, has not been discussed, Capt. Meadows said.

Mr. Greaves charged that the government "couldn't care less" about settling the wrangle.

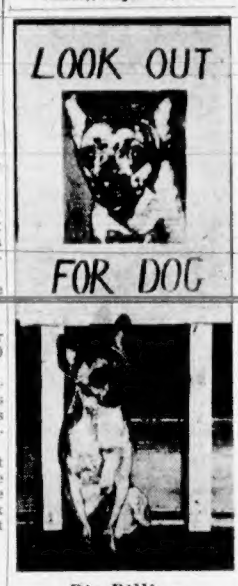

"They could keep control over the Black Ball ships for 10 years."

"They are making no attempt and the company knows it need not negotiate while it is under the government's protection."

The provincial government took over the Black Ball line June 24, a few hours before the ships were due to be struck by the engineers and Merchant Service Guild.

FIRST MEN

Man's earliest appearance dates from the Tertiary period of the Cenozoic era which spans from 60,000,000 B.C. to 1,000,000 B.C.

Big Billing

Before this sign was put up in front of the home of Buttons, a chihuahua of Monroe, Wis., the little dog used to be chased by cats. Now the cats keep their distance and visitors are wary as they approach the house. The sign is an enlarged photo of Buttons at his ferocious best.—(CP.)

GOLD BOOM

Within eight years of the 1896 gold strike more than $100,000,000 in gold was taken from the Klondike placer deposits.

Youth's Prison Term Illegal, Cabinet Rules

Three-month sentences imposed on a Vancouver Island youth for infractions of the government Liquor Act have been declared "illegal" by the provincial cabinet.

James Kert Logan of Cumberland was sentenced to three months on two counts of being a minor in a liquor store and for having beer in his possession—by Magistrate John Ryland Aug. 12. The sentences were concurrent.

Yesterday, cabinet ruled that the sentence was illegal, as the maximum penalty under the Liquor Act was a fine of $50.

Cabinet ordered that the unexpired portion of Logan's sentence be remitted and that he be released from Oakalla immediately.

Vagrancy, Bad Cheques

Six Charges Total 18 Months in Jail

William Wallace McLeod, 34, no fixed address, was sentenced to a total of 18 months in jail on six charges when he appeared before Magistrate A. L. Thomas in city police court yesterday.

Accused, who indicated an intention to appeal, had been found guilty last week of vagrancy, and of five charges of false pretences. On each of the charges yesterday Magistrate Thomas sentenced McLeod to three months in Oakalla, to be served consecutively.

The false pretence charges involved the cashing of the following worthless cheques.

At Cec Fletcher's, men's shop for $20, Aug. 2; at Canada Safeway, 1809 Douglas, for $20, Aug. 1; at Miss Frith's women's shop, 1619 Douglas, for $15, Aug. 1; at Marshall-Wells Store, 724 Fort, for $15, Aug. 2, and at W. & J. Wilson's, 1221 Government, for $10, Aug. 2.

No Time Lost On Span Job

It now appears little time will be lost in completing the Second Narrows Bridge which collapsed killing 19 workers two months ago, Premier Bennett said yesterday.

Contractors were ahead of schedule when part of the huge span fell, he said, and "my information is that its completion is not going to be delayed a great deal."

Insurance Men Complete Exams

Two Victoria men, Arthur C. Deeks of Metropolitan Life and John A. Lanigan, New York Life, recently completed examinations and have been awarded the title and designation of Charted Life Underwriters of Canada.

Lloyd G. Hammond of Great-West Life, Nanaimo, was also successful.

Mungo Martin To Be Given Big Welcome

A "welcome home" for Chief Mungo Martin and his granddaughter, Mrs. Helen Hunt, will be held at 2 p.m. next Sunday at the Cameron bandshell in Beacon Hill Park.

It is being arranged by B.C. Indian Arts and Welfare Society, Victoria section of B.C. Historical Association, and the Art Centre.

Chief Martin and his granddaughter were recently in England to present the centennial year totem to the Queen.

The ceremony, from 2 to 2.45, will be followed by a band concert.

Time to Divide Pinks

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

The early pinks such as Mrs. Sinkins and White Lady have now finished flowering, and if the clumps have been occupying the same position for three years or more, they will be [illegible] should be lifted, split up, and replanted.

First, clip off all the faded flower heads, taking the whole stem in each case. Then ease the clumps out of the soil carefully with a digging fork and shake off enough of the excess soil so that you can see what you're doing.

Rather than cutting the clump, it is better to tear it apart with the fingers into pieces about half the size of the palm of your hand. From the average three-year-old clump, you should get five or six nice tufts, each with a fair share of the roots.

The site selected for replanting these pieces should be dug over to the full depth of your spade, incorporating half a bucketful of very old manure or mellow compost per square yard, plus a full cupful of pulverized limestone.

* * *

I prefer the pulverized limestone to hydrated lime for this particular purpose, as it lasts longer and is less violent in its action, but if the hydrated is the only kind of lime you have on hand, go ahead and use it, but at the rate of only half a cupful per square.

If you have no rotted manure to enrich the site, use peat moss soaked in a fertilizer solution, as described in a recent column.

Set your little clumps of pinks into the soil at the same depth as before, spreading the roots outward rather than letting them dangle down in a narrow hole. Space your plants six inches apart, and water them in with a few drops of vitamin B1 in the water.

Clumps of pinks not yet ready for moving can be given a tonic now to encourage the formation of new roots, which will enhance the display of flowers next year.

The trick here is to top-dress them with a gritty mixture of one-half rich garden loam and one-half pulverized limestone. For loam, you can't do better than to rob the vegetable plot, for if annual manuring is practiced, this should be in excellent shape for use as a top dressing.

* * *

Again, if you don't have any pulverized limestone, substitute half the quantity of hydrated lime and make up the balance with coarse sand to give the required grittiness.

Work the mixture well in under the sprawling outer shoots to encourage a more upright habit of growth, [illegible] the centre of the clump as well.

If you have any of the mixture left after the pinks have been given their treat, use it on the other members of the Dianthus family—carnations, Allwoodii, Sweet William and the like.

* * *

I imagine the most widely planted and most beloved of all the pinks is Mrs. Sinkins, and its delightful fragrance perfumes the air in practically every garden. Yet no other plant has had such a lowly origin, for it was born in a poorhouse!

Catherine Sinkins was matron of Albert House, the Poor Law Institution at Slough, in England, where her husband was Workhouse Master. Mr. Sinkins raised the plan in the poorhouse garden in 1872, naming it for his wife. Both the Sinkins rest in the churchyard of St. Mary's, Slough, but the pink they created has gone on to win awards in horticultural shows the world over.

Hollywood Today

Clift Behind Cameras

HOLLYWOOD — Montgomery Clift is hoping to sign Marilyn Monroe for a movie he plans to direct. Monty will not act while he directs, believing that like marriage and a career, it can't be done.

* * *

Shelley Winters says it isn't so, the rumors filtering into Hollywood about husband, Tony Franciosa's reported attentions to a lady member of his "Naked Maja" cast. But Shell is going to Rome a bit earlier than intended.

* * *

Dorothy Dandridge goes to Italy when she finishes "Porgy and Bess," to star in "Arrivederci." Rossano Brazzi has been asked to play the male lead.

* * *

Van Heflin returns from Europe next month to huddle with Columbia executives about co-starring with Gary Cooper and Rita Hayworth in "They Come to Cordova." Robert Ryan is up for the fourth co-starring role.

* * *

Judy Garland is very much in good standing again with the people who make the night club bookings. After her date in Chicago, Judy parks her golden singing voice at the Sands in Las Vegas. She'll make enough money this year to pay off all her bills she hopes.

Mike Todd started it. Kirk Douglas followed. And now Gregory Peck is tossing the biggest party ever—$75,000 for the caviar-champagne-white tie affair to follow the premier of his new film, "The Big Country."

* * *

Burl Ives should be in big demand after the tremendous reaction to his performance in "The Big Country." Burl is not on the screen for the first hour of the picture but when he does make his entrance, it's the kind of scene every actor dreams of—all eyes on him as he delivers a blistering tirade at autocrat Charles Bickford and his houseful of guests. His "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" performance is also excellent.

Edgar Bergan, complete with pilot license, bought a new airplane. In addition to a hefty personal insurance policy, Edgar says he carries a $1,000,000 dollar insurance policy for his friends, Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd. Next summer Edgar takes Charlie and Mortimer to Sweden for a five-week tour of outdoor theatres and concert halls, for which he'll receive $100,000.

Jane Russell doesn't have to worry about where her bread and jam is coming from for the next umpteen years. Her one picture a year contract with Howard Hughes gives her $1,000 a week, work or play.

Espresso Language

Fractured English

Set Gets Honkers on Plasma

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP)—"Two Harry Redders," said the youth in the blue jeans.

We thought our friend Percy the bartender would do his nut. Having sent the customer on his way with two glasses of red wine, Percy said grimly:

"Fine thing, ennit, what these coffee bar types are doing to the English language? Reached the point around here where I feel like a foreigner."

We said we had noticed a certain obscurity about the bar conversation ever since the espresso joint opened across the street.

"The 'Harry' means nothing," Percy explained. "It's just a word these types throw in because in their set it's clever. Redders is red wine. Champers is champagne. Wallop, sludge and plasma are beer."

We said we had overheard one of the types asking his girl friend to "chuck the snouts over." She passed him a pack of cigarets and remarked, "Let's ride out of this clinic—I'm dead chocker."

"Snout is a British prison term for tobacco which has been adopted by the coffee bar types," explained Percy. "Clinic is their word for a pub, to ride out is to leave and dead chocker is terribly bored."

Percy then supplied a glossary of some of the more common terms in use by the caffein fiends:

Lumebring — courting a girl.

Dickey on the bubble—getting bald.

Dead chuffed—delighted.

Belt up—be quiet.

Cut, honkers, bottled or paralytic—drunk.

Round box — somebody who doesn't dig jazz. A square.

Doing his nut, or stroppy — getting furious.

A screech—enjoyable show or party.

Winning Contract

Vul: None	NORTH (D) ♠ Q 10 9 5 2 ♡ — ◇ A 6 2 ♣ A K J 9 8
WEST ♠ 3 ♡ K J 8 6 4 3 ◇ K 8 5 ♣ Q 4 2		EAST ♠ A 4 ♡ A Q 10 9 5 ◇ J 7 ♣ 10 7 6 3
	SOUTH ♠ K J 8 7 6 ♡ 7 2 ◇ Q 10 9 4 3 ♣ 5

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	1 ♡	1 ♠	4 ♡
6 ♣	All Pass

Opening lead: ♡ 6

South lacked considerable top card strength for his free bid of one spade, especially with a singleton in the suit his partner had bid. After the jump to four hearts, North was in a position to cue-bid five hearts, but saw no reason to give the enemy information that might direct an unfavorable opening lead. Instead, he jumped directly to six spades—a contract for which they should have had a better play if South had his proper values.

There is something very satisfactory about holding the ace of trumps against the opponents' slam bid. For one thing, you know there's no chance of their making seven; for another, your side needs only one more trick to defeat their contract. However, there are circumstances under which holding the ace can be a liability. East suffered from these circumstances in today's deal.

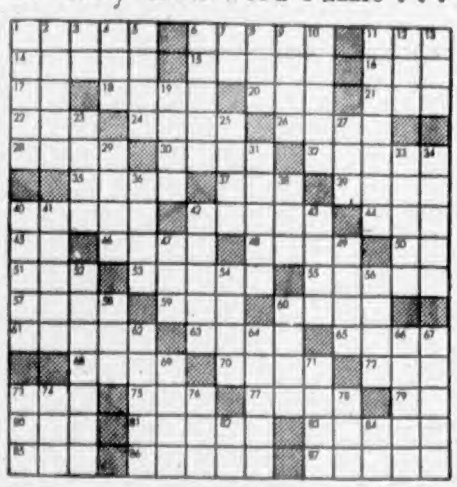

Declarer ruffed the heart lead in dummy and led the ten of spades. He would have made the same play had he bid spades on five to the jack, with greater strength in clubs and diamonds, and East feared to go up with the ace lest he drop his partner's blank king. That was the chance South needed. He abandoned trumps, cashing the ace and king of clubs and ruffing a third round. Next he ruffed his last heart in dummy, cashed the club jack and nine and, when East refused to ruff the last club, declarer threw him in with the ace of spades.

This left only one more river to cross. South had rid himself of three diamonds. If East returned a heart, he'd get rid of a fourth while dummy trumped. When East returned the seven of diamonds, it remained only for South to guess. South decided that if he held the king of diamonds and the ace of spades, East would have doubled the six spade bid. He put in the ten-spot to force West's king and bring home the lucky slam.

Veteran MLA Quits at 80

After 36 years of representing Peel in Ontario parliament, Col. T. L. Kennedy, centre, has announced his retirement. He was premier in 1948 then retired to become agriculture minister in the Frost government. Premier Frost, right, and John Pallett, MLA for South Peel, joined in congratulating Kennedy on his 80th birthday when he announced retirement.

Big Oak Falls on Apartment

'Lucky No One Was Killed'

Residents of an apartment block at Heywood and Rupert Streets had a rude awakening—and a narrow escape—at 2 a.m. yesterday.

A huge oak tree, its roots apparently weakened by dry weather crashed to the ground in the early morning darkness, smashing against the apartment's wall and breaking windows and frames on its way.

Beds of occupantsc of two suites — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mosz and Mrs. John Hining — were covered by splinters of glass and wood in the crashing fall of the massive tree.

Fortunately the main trunk of the tree fell at an angle to the building, so damage was caused only by the heavy branches.

F. Vincent Rush, 1221 Old Esquimalt Road, owner of the building, said it was lucky several people weren't killed. He added that split in the tree had been noticed two weeks ago.

City parks spokesman said there was no indication of the tree's root-rot above ground.

"We have spent a fair amount of money on that tree already," they said, "and it was limbed to remove top weight two years ago."

Longshoremen Vote Result Wednesday

Results of a strike vote among about 1,400 British Columbia longshoremen, including a total of 450 in Victoria, Chemainus and Port Alberni, will not be known until Wednesday.

The longshoremen have already rejected a conciliation board recommendation of a 10-cent increase in the $2.57 hourly wage. They are asking a 61½-cent raise.

Premier Bennett noted yesterday that the B.C. government has nothing to do with the dispute.

"It's under federal jurisdiction, not provincial jurisdiction," he said.
